Part 2

Tom is doing a project about Cheung Chau. He is listening to a radio programme.

You have one minute to read this part.

Listen to the radio programme. As you listen, complete the notes for Tom’s project. The answers may not be in the same order in the notes as in the radio programme. Also, use the online material of the description below to complete the task. The radio programme will be played once only.

Climbing for Buns Again

The bun tower is 60 feet* high. The buns attached to the tower are sweet and receive a blessing from monks. In the old days, people climbed up the bun towers at midnight and collected buns. They believed that the higher they climbed, the better luck they would have for the coming year. In 1978, many people were seriously injured climbing the bun towers which were built on bamboo frames. The climbing of the bun towers was then banned. However, the government revived the event in 2005 with a $570,000 steel tower at the Pak Tai Temple Playground and held a ‘bun-scrambling competition’. Whoever grabbed the most buns won a grand prize.

Remark: * The traditional type of bun tower is 60 feet high while the present steel tower is 46 feet high.

Complete the following notes for Tom’s project.
