Tom is reading a poem called ‘My Life’.

Read the poem.

My Life

Every day I walk through the same door
   I line up in the same hall
   Made to learn many things there
   Sit properly in the same chair
   And I’m happy most of the time 5

But I’d like everyone to know
   I want a choice of my own.
   I want to kick a ball
   Watch birds fly and count them all
   So I’ll be happy 10

But when I’m home from school
   I must read, study and write
   Till the stars disappear in the early light.
They’ll say these are the best years of my life
   I don’t know if they’re right. 15

   But in the darkness
   There’s always a light
   Which guides me along
   And tells me what’s right.
Sure enough, life is quite bright 20

Tom is reading a magazine article for young people.

Read it.

THE HONG KONG ARTS FESTIVAL

The Hong Kong Arts Festival is a major event that attracts international attention. Artists and visitors from overseas travel to Hong Kong and help to make this festival a success. The festival takes place from February to March each year. It features music, theatre, dance, popular entertainment, film and exhibition programmes. During this event, many different artists perform, or create and display their works.

In many ways, the Hong Kong Arts Festival is a joint effort between local and overseas artists. It is an opportunity for artists to exchange ideas on art and culture. They display their artistic works and talents which range from the traditional to modern forms of art.

The Hong Kong Arts Festival also organises programmes for young people in Hong Kong to learn more about the performing arts. There are a number of schemes, one of which is the ‘Young Friends Scheme’. It was started in 1992 and teenagers are encouraged to enrol in many events and learn about the creative arts. Another scheme, the ‘Festival’s Friends’, gives members priority to attend any event they choose.

The Hong Kong Arts Festival receives money from both public and private sources — the Leisure and Cultural Services Department and Hong Kong Jockey Club Charities Trust. Ticket sales, individual donations and sponsorships from various organisations also help to support this successful festival.

Part 3

Tom has to write a book review for Ms Wong, the school librarian. She has given him two book reviews to compare.

Read the reviews.

Book Review 1

My English teacher asked me to read a book recently. Let me tell you about this book.

It is an interesting story about a young boy named John who sailed on a big ship. He didn’t know it was a pirate ship when he first got on board. By the time he found out, it was too late. The ship had already been sailing for many days. Later in the book the pirates attacked some ships and robbed the passengers of their jewellery and gold. Then, the captain buried the stolen treasure on an island. John did not like what they did. He knew it was wrong, but he was too scared to say anything. John had changed after his exciting adventures and experiences. He came back home as a brave young man.

This children’s book, An Exciting Journey, written by Peter Peel, was certainly entertaining. Reading the book made me want to travel someday and write adventure stories too.

Sometimes reading seems boring. It seems like we only read for school and examinations. However, An Exciting Journey is a book that is a pleasure to read. I recommend you read more adventure books as often as you can.

Book Review 2

My friends told me A Deserted Island, a book by David Smith, was a very good book. They said the story was very interesting. I read it recently but I disagree with them. Let me tell you why.

The book is about two boys who lived 50 years ago. Kevin and Sam set sail in a small boat. A big storm almost destroys the boat but fortunately they survive. They land on a deserted island and have many adventures together.

I had to force myself to finish reading this book. Yes I know when two friends help each other, nothing is impossible. But I really wondered what my friends liked so much about this story. It has nothing to do with my life today. So why should I care about the characters in this book?

Give me a story about real people and things that happen in their lives. I can learn from their successes and failures.
