Amy is reading an article about electric cars.

Read the article.

Electric Cars

1

In the past, cars only used petrol or diesel. Petrol and diesel cars cause air pollution. Today people can buy electric cars. Electric cars use energy stored in batteries. Therefore, they do not produce harmful gases. If there are more electric cars, people will enjoy cleaner air and better health. Electric cars run quietly and smoothly and they cause less noise pollution. Also, electricity costs less than petrol and diesel, so drivers can save money.

5

However, electric cars have problems too. They cannot go as far as petrol or diesel cars. Drivers need to charge them before the batteries run out. Hong Kong does not have enough charging stations. Charging takes at least 30 minutes each time. Some people think this is too slow.

10

The Hong Kong Government asks drivers to use electric cars. It wants the city to have no car pollution by 2050. There has been some success. The number of electric cars in Hong Kong was under 200 in 2010. Now it is over 15,000 and it will continue to rise.

Mum works in a school library.
At home she only reads comic books.
Her favourite place is the boutique nearby,
But she buys no clothes, she only looks.

5

Grandpa is 75 but never tired.
He swims in the morning, hikes in the afternoon.
He has already been to most places on earth.
He is now dreaming of flying to the moon.

10

Our last family member is like a sloth.
She moves slowly and wakes up late.
We play games and sleep in the same little bed.
