Your English teacher wants your class to work on a project to attract more people to stay in Hong Kong at weekends. You and two other students are preparing for the project.

In your discussion, you may include:

- places to visit (e.g., countryside and theme parks)
- activities to join
- different types of food
- the benefits (e.g., shop owners earn more and more jobs for people)
- anything else that you think is important

You may begin by saying:

We're working on a project to attract more people to stay in Hong Kong at weekends. First, let's talk about the places to visit in Hong Kong.
